

Award-winning urban events specialists Wildgoose Events continues its expansion plans with the appointment of three new members of staff who have joined the Wildgoose team. Lilli Muehleisen is a professional circus performer who joins the team as a Project and Event Manager. Lilli, who has performed aerial acrobatics all over the world, also qualified in business studies and has successfully managed to combine both careers. She has been working as a Freelance Event Manager for a number of events companies and on hearing about Wildgoose from her colleagues she contacted the company to see if there were any openings.

Resourceful Gemma Smith contacted Wildgoose via LinkedIn while searching for a new role within the London area. From her initiative, a meeting resulted and she is now the company's newest Account Manager with the direct responsibility for developing relationships with the company's existing clients. Gemma joins the team from Fence Gate where she was the Sales and Marketing Manager for two multi-faceted event and conferencing venues.

Finally, Mandy Chase has joined the Company as Marketing Executive. Mandy joined the Wildgoose Team after a friend of a friend suggested that her skills and background would be a great asset to the team. Mandy has over ten years' worth of experience working within the Advertising Industry and most recently worked within the Sales and Marketing Team at The Grove. Mandy joins the team after a career break bringing up her two children and will be supporting the company's on-line marketing and web site development. Peter Barker, Wildgoose's Operations Director says: "Our expansion plans continue apace and we are delighted to welcome on board our new team members. As an enterprising company, we like to think out of the box so it's no surprise that our new staff have not all come to us through traditional recruitment routes! "Mandy, Gemma and Lilli all join the team at a really exciting time and bring their own individuality and expertise into the company to help us achieve the growth we have planned for this year and beyond."
